WILSON HONORED AT NATIONAL REFLECTIONS CONTEST

Drew Wilson, who will be a freshman at Dripping Springs High School, received Honorable Mention at the 2017 National PTA Reflections competition. He was honored for his photo, "Choosing My Colors." Drew's entry moved on to the national level after receiving an Award of Excellence at the state competition. In fact, he had the distinctive honor of having two of his entries advancing to the state level. The other was artwork titled "My Life Underwater." Drew is the son of Nikki Loftin and Dave Wilson.

Drew's piece was one of two DSISD entries that qualified for the national competition; James Bartling's musical composition titled "My Story" also made a showing. In addition, this marks the second time in two years a Dripping Springs student was recognized at the national level; Miranda McShan accomplished this honor last year.
